Accordion:

1. Does DSO Pricing actually pay for itself?

Yes. Most members cover the cost with one change.

For example, many practices save around $50 per crown. At approximately 30 crowns per month, that's $1,500 per month in savings.

With a $399 monthly membership, that's $1,100 per month back in your practice from one vendor alone.

And that's before we look at aligners, implants, or supplies.

2. How much can I realistically save on overhead?

It depends on your current vendors and volume, but most practices see savings across:

- Labs (crowns, implants)
- Aligners
- Supplies
- Merchant services

Even small improvements across multiple categories can add up to thousands per month in reduced overhead.

3. Is this just a dental buying group?

No.

Most buying groups focus on discounts.

DSO Pricing goes further by helping you choose the right vendors, implement changes that improve margins, and get guidance from operators who have scaled practices.

4. How is DSO Pricing different from Smile Source or other groups?

Traditional groups focus on negotiated pricing and vendor access.

DSO Pricing focuses on profitability, hands-on guidance, and helping you think and operate like a high-performing group. We also partner with Seattle Study Club, so you can gain CE.

Most groups give you options. We help you make the right decisions.

5. What does "DSO-level pricing" actually mean?

DSOs (Dental Support Organizations) get better pricing because they have higher volume, stronger vendor relationships, and more negotiation leverage.

DSO Pricing gives independent dentists access to similar pricing structures, preferred partners, and group-level advantages—so you can compete without selling your practice.

6. Who is DSO Pricing best for?

DSO Pricing is best for:

- Practices doing $1M or more
- Growth-focused dentists
- Multi-associate or multi-location practices
- Owners looking to increase profitability and EBITDA

If you are trying to grow or prepare for an eventual exit, this is built for you.

7. How quickly can I start seeing savings?

In many cases, immediately.

Once you switch to preferred vendors, you can begin reducing costs right away, especially in high-volume categories like labs or aligners.

Many practices see meaningful savings within the first 30 to 60 days.

8. Do I have to switch all my vendors?

No.

Most members start with one or two high-impact changes, such as labs or aligners, and expand from there.

You stay in control. We help you prioritize what will actually move the needle.

---

9. Are there long-term contracts or commitments?

No long-term, restrictive contracts like traditional groups.

You are not locked into multi-year agreements.

The goal is to deliver enough value that staying is an easy decision.

10. How does this help me grow my practice, not just save money?

Saving money is just the starting point.

Inside DSO Pricing, you also get strategic guidance from experienced operators, help identifying growth opportunities, and support improving efficiency and profitability.

This is why most dentists join for savings, but stay for growth.

11. What is the biggest mistake dentists make with overhead?

Focusing on small savings instead of big opportunities.

Many dentists try to save small amounts here and there while missing opportunities worth thousands per month.

The real leverage comes from choosing the right vendors, improving efficiency, and making better strategic decisions.

12. How can independent dentists compete with DSOs?

By operating smarter, not just working harder.

DSOs win because of better pricing, stronger vendor relationships, and more structured decision-making.

DSO Pricing helps you access those same advantages while staying independent and in control.
